

PRINCIPLE, THE MAN

ORIG MSS

The Man-Principles [91]

The most familiar of the principles that we meet in common every day life is the principles inherent in mathematics. We are careful to adhere to its rules because we know by experience that we cannot successfully juggle without figures. Figures ~~never~~ ^{never} lie. We also Know that the laws of nature cannot be broken with impunity, although we are not so universally acquainted with the principles of nature as we are with the laws of mathematics.

 The principles of logic convince us that the laws of nature when fully understood will be found to be as exact as the rules governing mathematics.

 Every effect in the world in which we live has its derivative principle to which it is attached by invisible sources of energy and intelligence.
 This rule holds good from the mustard seed to the mammoth tree in which the birds make their homes. The atom has its principle in the visible protons and electrons, and the solar systems have their principle in the mathematical revolution of ~~the~~ suns and stars.

 As it is in the least, so it is in the great.

Admitting that every created thing in the universe has its principle what shall we say about the greatest [5] 5 of all created things - Man² Has man a principle from which flows a set of laws that are rules of action ~~for~~ ^{for his} well being,² ~~for~~ If all things are governed by principle we cannot logically deny ^{man,} the most perfect thing its principle.

But man has not been ~~looked upon~~ considered in the same class ⁽⁶⁾ 6 with the ~~things~~ that are governed by principles.

We have been taught that God created man and arbitrarily rules him as a dictator rules the people he ^{has} conquered.

But this assumption does violence to good logic and innumerable evidences ~~that~~ on every have ~~that structure~~ a creature law ~~that~~ under which all things are produced. ^{and governed,} We do not plant corn and expect a crop of wheat. We have found that every seed ^{brings forth} ~~produces~~ after its kind. There is an invisible principle in an apple seed that will under certain conditions produce an apple tree, That apple ^[8] 8 tree will in its turn produce many apples, every one of which will have seeds through which the apple tree principle will continue indefinitely to produce ^{trees and} apples.

We could go on indefinitely, giving illustrations of ~~the~~ invisible principle bringing forth visible manifestations with ^{un} ^[9] varying regularity ~~and system~~

But ~~yet~~ these may object lessons showing us the universal law of principle and product has not seemingly caused us to apply the same ~~to~~ law to the creation of man.

However man is created ~~from~~ and eternally governed by a man-principle. ^[107] 10

In the old Testament this man principle is ~~named~~ ^{named} Jehorah and in the new Testament it is Christ.

In the Sanscrit the man principle is called Krishna.

In the Greek it is Christos.

<sup>according to the modern</sup> this principle was projected into spiritual action by Elohim when man was created as his "image & likeness".

The "image and likeness" principle is allegorically described in the second chapter of Genesis, as Jehovah, forming man from the dust of the ground. ~~the~~ ~~in~~ Jehovah is the law of the the Man-Principle giving to its form, Adam-~~Man~~, all its spiritual privileges with power to make them ~~to make~~ manifest in personal consciousness.
 This Adam-man is the unique fruit of the Man-Principle.

But, like the boy working out numbers, if man does not stick close to his principle he makes errors and his conclusions fall short of the preception eternally existing in the man-principle.

Of all created things man seems to be the only one that has ~~the~~ power to exercise freedom

[137] 13 in the use of the life principles ~~in~~ which he ~~is~~ exists. If he so will, he can ignore the law of the Man-principle and form a consciousness that has sentient ~~life~~ and to him seems real, yet has no permanent ~~existence~~. The man-principle, Christ, says to the man who lives in ignorance of Him," Without me ye have no life in you."

Jews cultivated the conscience of the Man-Principle until it animated his every thought.
He called the Man-Principle Father. He was the Son of the Man-Principle, or as he preferred to call himself, the Son of Man.

The real man idealized by Creative Mind is the Man-Principle, Jehosh.

Moses discovered the law of ~~the Man-Principle~~, Jehosh, and called our attention to the necessity of observing and identifying our minds with the mind of the Man-Principle.

Principle-

A source or cause from which a thing proceeds; a power that acts continuously or uniformly, a permanent or fundamental, cause that naturally or necessarily produces certain results.

The regulative principle in nature, the vital principle, that which is inherent in anything, determining its nature, essential character, essence, the principle of mathematics, logic, music, art, science.

Acts 4:32

And the multitude of them that believed were of one heart and soul;
and not one of them said that aught of the things which he possessed was his own; but they had all things common. + + + For neither was there among them any that lacked; for as many
