

MAN TO CONQUEST DEATH
ORIG. Mss.

(1)

Man to Conquer Death,

N.Y. June 2 - Man, in his constant battle with nature, eventually will win out. He will,
Dr. Will Durant, formerly professor of philosophy in Columbia University, believe, overcome death.

Science already is lengthening the span of life, so Durant points out, and he declares that within the next hundred years centenarians will become common.

"But I cannot say positively that men will live forever; ^[3] 3 I merely wish to point out that eternal life

is not an impossibility,
he explained.

Admitting that the age when men will cease to die might have its inconveniences, the professor said there

(4) 4

was nothing in science or in philosophy in= consistent with the idea of eventual
immortality of the body.

"Death is a scheme
of Nature," he said,
for making room

for the young. But I suppose if man
 ever conquers death,
 he will by that time
 cease to grow old
 and retain the vigor
 of youth."

Dr. Durant in his book, "The Story of Philosophy," predicts a "golden age" of art, literature and philosophy in America in the near future. He says this renaissance would compare with the age of Pericles in Greece, Montaigne

in France an Shakespeare in England.
