

A LETTER FROM THE EDITOR

November 18, 2014

Dear Daily Word Family:

As winter approaches, bird lovers keep their eyes peeled for migrating eagles. According to experts on sacred symbols, the eagle's stunning appearance may prompt us to use our intelligence, experience, and talents in a new way. This divine spark will give us freedom to soar.

I saw bald eagles twice in the past few months while living in Montana. Today, I am your new editor of Daily Word.

When I learned of the search for a new editor in August, I thought the position had my name on it. Everything fell into place quickly. In October, I moved from Montana to Missouri—home of Unity World Headquarters.

My connection with Daily Word began in 2000 when I changed direction in my spiritual journey. I began using the affirmative prayers modeled in the magazine, studied the Bible, and became a prayer chaplain. I even took a vacation to study great spiritual teaching at Unity Village. I came to recognize that every challenge leads to growth. And every bit of knowledge, combined with faith, leads to more serenity, prosperity, and joy.

SUBSCRIBE

DONATE

PRAY

From Our Readers

“Daily Word brings me back to the essential truths. I am loved; I am eternal; I am a Child of God; all is well in the Universe.”

—Marcia, Ohio

“Words cannot express my deep gratitude for the daily guidance, hope, and inspiration I receive from your publication. It is practical Christianity at its very best, a spiritual guide I depend on every day.”

—Carol, Pennsylvania

has focused on a search for inner peace. Perhaps because on the outside, my life is hectic. For the first 12 years of my career I was a television news producer. When our family grew to four children, I changed careers and became a public relations professional. I served school districts and universities—helping them increase private and public support for students.

As I prepared myself for my next career move, I wrote down the type of culture I envisioned. Respect, kindness, and honesty rank high on the list of personal qualities I seek in colleagues. I share this because I believe it is important to be clear about what you seek. Say it over and over. Pray about it. Meditate on it. Our loving God will guide you to your highest good.

On Thanksgiving, my new job will be at the top of my gratitude list. I am blessed with the opportunity to serve you, our readers. And what could beat spending the day immersed in affirmations?

What will you put on your gratitude list this Thanksgiving? Spiritual gifts such as love, peace, and joy mean the most to me. Look through Daily Word if you would like some ideas on how to express the depth of your gratitude.

In Love,

Beth

PS: Daily Word makes a great Christmas present. Purchase gift subscriptions here.

Special Holiday Gift Offer
SAVE ON GIFTS

LIMITED TIME ONLY: Give a gift subscription to Daily Word and save off the regular gift rate.

DAILYWORD.
A Unity® Publication

Share

Tweet

Forward

Copyright © 2014 Daily Word. All rights reserved.

Unsubscribe from this list | Update subscription preferences

DAILYWORD.
A Unity® Publication